

JUNIOR CONSULTANT

STADA GLOBAL INFORMATION SERVICES SERBIA

Looking for an opportunity to join a young and highly motivated team, to learn and to grow in a dynamic and challenging area? You'd like to put your English skills into practice collaborating with colleagues all over the world in a global organization? Then you might want to keep reading.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATION:

You've completed your education with a technical or ideally IT degree and consider yourself a quick learner, easily adapting to new challenges? You're motivated to contribute to team efforts and like to drive improvements? Then we're looking for you.

JOB DESCRIPTION:

No day is like the other if you're working on international IT projects. Here at STADA GIS Serbia we are constantly improving processes, ensuring operational excellence while at the same time paving the way for future business plans and you can become a part of this mission.

Being part of our team, you would analyze and assess user requests. Together with your team members you'd find the best way of implementing changes and collaborate with them in reaching that goal. You'll have the chance to work on project tasks, such as consulting users in defining functional specifications, test protocols and the handling of innovative new systems. The system landscape you'd be working in includes SAP, LIMS and many other information systems in the area of quality management. System customizing, testing new features, preparing documentation, specifications for programmers or organizing and participating in training of key users are just some of the tasks that await you.

NEXT STEPS:

Up to the challenge? Then we're looking forward to receive your CV alongside with a short letter of motivation and hopefully we'll see you in an interview soon.
